

Oregon Tuna Classic History

The OTC traces its origins back to the compassionate vision of Bud Hosner, a dedicated fisherman and commercial realtor. In 2005, Hosner teamed up with a group of like-minded fishermen to establish the "I Fish for Food Tuna Tournament." Now known as the OTC. This event allowed anglers to indulge in their love for fishing while simultaneously contributing to feeding the less fortunate.

Over the years, the OTC has evolved into the fastest-growing charitable tournament on the West Coast. Since 2010, it has been an exclusive invitational tournament for the prestigious Offshore World Championship. Win the OTC and you're qualified to compete in the Offshore World Championship. The OTC teams have displayed exceptional skills in past competitions, clinching 1st place in 2019 and 2nd place in 2021.

In 2020, out of 40,000 tournaments nationwide, the Oregon Tuna Classic was honored with the esteemed title of Best Catch 2020. The tournament's impact has expanded significantly, both locally and internationally. From its modest beginnings, the event now boasts annual sponsors, community resource development and local business growth. With a national reach through digital media and participation in the world's largest offshore tournament, the Oregon Tuna Classic has become a significant force in supporting the hungry.

The contributions, comprising of both financial donations and processed tuna, made to the Oregon Food Bank have amounted to an astounding Million (1,000,000) pounds of food for the needy. Additionally, contributions to Ducks Unlimited have played a crucial role in conserving thousands of acres of wetlands and wildlife habitats.

The tournament itself spans two days, the event kicks off with Big Fish Friday and a Captains meeting paving the way for the main fishing event on Saturday. The culminating Saturday night awards ceremony and fundraiser draws in over 500 guests. Typically, the tournament accommodates 40 to 50 teams, each comprising of up to six anglers. The winning team's prowess is gauged by the combined weight of their five largest albacore tuna caught on Saturday.

2023 Results

In a testament to the fisherman and the community's generosity, the tournament achieved unprecedented heights in 2023. In the latest chapter of the Oregon Tuna Classic's remarkable journey, the 2023 tournament proved to be the most productive year on record.

A staggering sum of over $188,000 was raised through corporate sponsorship and monetary donations.

A record catch of over 10,000 lbs. of tuna all processed and packaged by our 2023 title sponsor Pacific Seafood helped us provide nutritious meals for those in need. That continued commitment along with the steadfast support of each sponsor helps us provide a tangible difference in the lives of countless individuals and families. The Oregon Tuna Classic's commitment to alleviating hunger and establishing better resources for the entire community is only possible with your participation. We look forward to your support and continued commitment in the years to come.
